State health official says:

Hancock infant dead, girl recovering, 50 treated here for H flu meningitis

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A form of meningitis in Hancock County has claimed the life of an infant, hospitalized a young girl and resulted in the preventative treatment of 50 people, a State Health Department official reports.

Amelia Kennedy, RN, nurse consultant for disease control for the department in Jackson, said Wednesday that a Bay St. Louis infant died and a 3 1/2-year-old girl is recuperating from

'hemophilus influenza meningitis' which is commonly known as 'H flu meningitis.'

She confirmed that Bobby Joseph (B.J.) Perkins Jr., the six-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joseph (Jean Loyd) Perkins Sr. of Bay St. Louis died Dec. 3 from the disease.

However, Kennedy would not reveal the identity of or where the stricken girl lives in Hancock County, but said the youth was not related to the infant.

She reported the state received a report Monday that the girl showed symptoms of the disease Sunday and was hospitalized, but Kennedy did not know if the youth had been released.

The Sea Coast Echo has learned that the girl is from Waveland and attended a nursery school there.

She said rumors that the girl attended an elementary school were not true, but her brother did attend a local school and received preventive treatment to keep him from spreading the disease.

Kennedy said the disease is fatal 'especially in young children' if not properly treated by a physician and commonly strikes youths ranging from two months to four years old, but can be contracted by a person of any age.

She reported that 50 people, an unusually high number, who have come in 'close contact' with the girl at the recommendation of a physician have been 'prophylactically treated with Rifampin' to prevent them from spreading the disease.

"In Hancock we treated an unusually high number of people because we usually treat other children who are in the same room with the infected child and immediate family members," Kennedy stated.

She said the state usually requires the preventative treatment when two cases are confirmed in one area.

Elsewhere in the state, Kennedy said, a Mobile youth who attended a nursery school in Jackson County contracted the disease and about 26 were treated with the preventative.

Four children in Hinds County during the last 10 days have also acquired the disease, she reported.

"Any time a child develops symptoms of this disease, parents should have a physician check them," Kennedy recommended.

The common cure for those who contract the disease is hospitalization within seven days after the symptoms are noticed and treatment with 'Ampicillin,' Kennedy said.

Symptoms for H flu meningitis or any form of meningitis are high fever, vomiting, a stiffness in the neck and lethargy (abnormal drowsiness), she explained.

The state frequently receives reports of the disease this time of year, Kennedy said.

H flu meningitis is triggered by hemophilus influenza (H flu), she added.

"The patient will usually get better after a day or so with proper treatment. It takes about 10 days to two weeks for the disease to run its course," Kennedy explained.

State plans to inspect oily Hancock well pit

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The State Oil and Gas Board plans to send an inspector to a producing Hancock County gas well to check a nearby pit which contains an oily liquid.

Richard Lewis, the board's chief engineer, said Wednesday that Joe Nester, a field supervisor, will soon inspect the well operation located at the west end of First Street near Bayou Phillips in Section 30, Township 8 South, Range 14 West.

The oval pit is about three or four feet deep, some 25 feet wide and about 30 feet long, and a pipe extends from the gas well to the large hole in the ground.

A sign designating a well's name and operator is usually posted at a site, but the Bayou Phillips operation is not marked except for a gauge on the well head 'Christmas tree' which appears to read 1,200 pounds.

A local resident fears the oily liquid will seep underground into aquifers or overflow into the nearby bayou.

Lewis stated, "I'm not sure if this pit is permitted or not. In some cases pits are allowed by the state to help deter pollution."

He explained the board is responsible for monitoring potential pollution problems within the area leased for a particular well, but if pollutants are entering state-claimed wetlands the State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control becomes involved.

Mike Egan, a BPC inspector of Ocean Springs and formerly of Bay St. Louis, inspected the well area Tuesday.

Bob Rogers, BPC engineering services coordinator in Jackson, said Wednesday morning that Egan found no evidence of saltwater or oil pollution.

in state waters, but found 'a little trouble with housekeeping' in the well area.

He noted that Egan discovered evidence of oil in an adjacent grassy area which apparently resulted from spillage which probably occurred when the pit was emptied into tank trucks for removal and disposal.

Egan explained at the well site that the liquid is apparently a mixture of salt water and crude oil condensate which is filtered from the natural gas produced by the well.

The gas is then evidently transported by pipeline from the well site for marketing.

Egan checked water in a nearby drainage area with a portable salt detection instrument, but found no evidence of that type of pollution.

Rogers also noted that in some instances or emergency situations well site containment pits are allowed to help prevent pollution.

Former Circuit Clerk released from probation

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Proceedings to revoke the probation of former Hancock Circuit Clerk Henry Otis, 64, were dropped Tuesday when Otis submitted a check in the amount of some $4,045 to complete payments ordered by the court in November, 1982.

James D. Hester of Laurel, 10th Circuit Court district judge, also released Otis from probation.

Otis, circuit clerk from 1971 to 1982, was indicted for embezzlement following the January 1982 grand jury term and charged with converting some $49,000 to his own use between October 1979 and October 1981 by virtue of his office.

The felony indictment stemmed from a special investigation by the State Department of Audit following a preliminary investigation by the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office.

The amount involved was later dropped to $25,000 and Otis pled guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of failure to keep proper records.

As a plea bargain condition, Otis resigned from his post on Nov. 5, 1982. Hester was appointed to hear the case by Gov. William Winter after the three Second Circuit Court judges excused themselves from the action.

On Nov. 30, 1982 Hester ordered Otis to pay $22,000 in restitution plus the cost of any further audits of his office exploring any possible irregularities.

The payment was ordered in lieu of a six-month jail sentence, and Otis was placed on one year's probation.

During the trial Otis' attorney Boyce Holliman of Gulfport admitted that Otis did spend some time money that should have been turned over to the chancery clerk's office.

However, Holliman argued that Otis spent the money on operations of the circuit clerk's office and did not expend any funds for his own personal use.

Doris Ellis, also known as Dorothy, of 1330 Chinche Street, Bay St. Louis, has been charged with sale of a controlled substance and was due for preliminary hearing Wednesday night before City Judge Joseph Benvenuti, Bay Police Department Chief Investigator Murray Ladner said yesterday.

Ladner said Ellis was arrested Dec. 15 after allegedly selling 30 sets of drugs to an undercover agent from Jackson County for $100.

The drugs, which have not been specifically identified and have been submitted to a laboratory in Jackson for analysis, appear to be 'T's and blues,' Ladner said.

Ellis was released under a $10,000 bond.

She was not incarcerated, Ladner said, because she had an ill two-month-old baby at home.

Hancock County land roll shows $39 million valuation

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Tuesday the Bay City Council unanimously adopted its land roll as submitted by the Tax Commission.

The Hancock County land roll shows total 1983-84 assessed valuation of some $39 million, broken down into some $28.9 million in real property, $1.9 million in personal property, $3 million in public utilities and an estimated $5.3 million in automobiles.

For Bay St. Louis, the rounded figures are $13.9 million in real property, $387,000 in personal property, $2 million in public utilities and $2.9 million in automobiles (estimated) for a total of $19.8 million.

The figures for Waveland are $10.2 million in real property, $970,000 in personal property, $681,200 in public utilities and $1.6 million in automobiles (estimated) for a total of $13.5 million.

Outside the corporate limits, the assessed valuation totals $5.8 million, with a breakdown of some $4.8 million in real property, $19,468 in personal property, $240,000 in public utilities and $707,000 in automobiles (estimated).

Also Tuesday, council members were advised by City Clerk Eddie Favre that Utility Manager A.L. Franklin recommends a change in billing cycles for utility bills.

Franklin suggests four billing cycles, each Wednesday through Friday, beginning with the first Wednesday after the first Monday of each month and continuing for four consecutive weeks.

The billing date on the bills would be Friday of the appropriate billing cycle week.

All bills would be mailed Friday afternoon.

Council members agreed with the recommendation but took no official action, saying the matter was an administrative one to be left to Franklin's discretion.

—Tabled an agreement with the Mississippi Highway Commission regarding joint maintenance of vegetation on the US-90 right-of-way for scenic enhancement; and —Voted to expend up to $500 from the $10,000 allocated for beautification to plant rye grass on neutral ground on US-90.

The council will meet at 10:30 on Monday, Jan. 2 to accept Councilman Gene Taylor's resignation and set an election date for his successor.

Menhaden industry reports record production for 1983

A new record production is reported by the menhaden industry and the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) for the 1983 season which ended in mid-October in the Gulf of Mexico.

A menhaden harvest of 923,000 metric tons was reported to the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission at its annual meeting in Key West, Fla. in October just after the menhaden season ended.

"We had our very best year ever," reports George Brumfield, vice-president of operations at Zapata Haynie Corporation's Moss Point, menhaden reduction plant.

The plant has been in operation since 1956.

Brumfield says it was also an excellent year for oil production, which can vary greatly from year to year.

"We produced not only the greatest amount of oil we ever have, but the most oil per unit of fish."

What the fish feed on and nutrients in the water probably are big factors in the amount of oil yielded by the fish. Studies of the diet of menhaden have found that they feed primarily on microscopic plants and animals floating about in the water.

Menhaden plants produce fish oil, fish meal and fish solubles. At present, about 98 percent of the fish oil produced from Gulf menhaden is exported to European markets and used in margarine, says Brumfield.

The fish meal and solubles yielded are now used in the production of hog and poultry feed in the southeastern states.

Bob Chapoton of the NMFS, Beaufort, N.C., said the harvest figure was based on preliminary tabulations of captains' daily fishing reports.

The harvest represents an 8 percent increase over the 1982 season which was the previous record year at 854,000 metric tons. The catch was mediocre—only 552,600 tons—in 1981.

For Mississippi, Chapoton estimated a 17 percent increase in landings over last year, a seven percent increase for eastern Louisiana, and a five percent increase for western Louisiana.

No long-term harm to the fishery resource is expected because of the last two years of excellent catches, according to Chapoton.

Chapoton predicted there will be 80-81 vessels in the menhaden fishery in 1984, and that landings will be between 650,000 and 750,000 metric tons.

A new management plan for the menhaden fishery in the Gulf of Mexico region was recently published by the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission (GSMFC), which has offices in Mississippi.

The plan is a culmination of a year-long effort by personnel from the five Gulf states marine agencies, National Marine Fisheries Service, GSMFC, the menhaden industry and universities to update an earlier plan.

POINT OF LAW

Mississippi State Bar

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your legal rights.)

Q: My husband died recently. We did not have any children. In his will, my husband left one-half of his estate to me, and one-half of his estate to our church. My husband was always a devoutly religious person and I respected his beliefs. Nevertheless, I am old and cannot work, and I need more than one-half of his estate to live on. Is the church entitled to one-half of my husband's estate? What can I do?

A: No, the church is not entitled to one-half of your husband's estate. Since your husband left you his wife, as his heir at law, he should not have given more than one-third of his estate to your church. You should contact an attorney immediately and discuss with him the possibility of contesting your husband's will.

Q: A man who said he was with an oil company telephoned me yesterday and offered to pay me $100 if I would sign a quitclaim deed. The man said his company had bought some land my grandfather used to own, but that because of some reason, I didn't fully understand, his company wanted me to sign the deed. Should I sign?

A: As a general rule, you should never sign anything like a deed, a contract, or whatever, without first talking to your lawyer. It sounds like there is some problem with the oil company's title to your grandfather's land which the company expects to cure by getting the quitclaim deed from you. However, it would be wise to have your lawyer talk to the oil company so that you can find out exactly what rights you have in the property.

The oil company, if it is a reputable outfit, will understand and respect your wish to confer with your lawyer before making a final decision. If it turns out that the title problem is really a technical matter and the company is offering you a fair price to help them eliminate this defect, your lawyer will then advise you that you may safely give the quitclaim deed.

Christmas is only a few days away and many youngsters of the area can hardly wait for the opening of presents.

Some 350 children of Hancock County will have a brighter Christmas through the efforts of the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

This Toy Fund is an agency of the United Way and receives additional support from many businesses and individuals.

A tremendous amount of work is also done by Hancock County firefighters in getting the gifts ready.

Andrew Lizana, Bay St. Louis fire chief is the chairman of the fund and reports he has received tremendous support this year. This enabled them to help more deserving children this year.

The toys were delivered by firefighters, Hancock County deputies, Bay and Waveland patrolmen.

We feel this is an effort for which all of these Santa helpers should be thanked.

We have been very lucky so far as the weather is concerned over the past week.

Parts of our state as well as the majority of the United States have had some severe cold weather.

We are hoping it will not be too cold for us on Christmas.

The holiday season involves many types of parties in our communities.

We again urge anyone drinking to please have someone sober take them home.

Drinking and driving is a very serious matter in Mississippi, and many are being caught and detained at our local jail.

The above is not to mention the number of persons in our state who are killed or injured in alcohol-related accidents.

We hope everyone will have a good holiday season, and most of all a safe one.

EAR INFECTIONS IN CHILDREN

Q: My three-year old is suffering from otitis media - inflammation of the middle ear. What are its causes and treatment?

A: Otitis media is an inflammation of the middle ear behind the eardrum in the space that contains the hearing bones. It is one of the most common infections in young children.

In fact, most children under the age of five will average one episode of otitis media a year. But as a child gets older, recurrences of the infection tend to disappear.

Otitis media is usually caused by a bacterial infection, but viruses and allergies may also trigger episodes. Blowing the nose too hard or sniffing a great deal sends infected mucus into the eustachian tubes, and eventually the mucus works its way into the middle ear.

Otitis media occurs more frequently in young children because their eustachian tubes are narrow and may fail to drain properly.

Otitis media is not contagious. However, since the colds and viruses that trigger the infection are contagious, children who live or play together may infect one another and then develop middle ear infections.

Symptoms of otitis media may include intense pain in the ear and surrounding area, dizziness, a feeling of fullness in the ear, hearing loss, fever, headache and runny nose.

In very young children, the pain might not be severe enough to cause them to cry hard. Instead, they may tug constantly at the infected ear.

Never try to treat otitis media on your own. Don't insert cotton swabs in the ear. If your child has any of the symptoms listed above, take him or her to your doctor.

In fact, any time a child has a pain in the ear, consult a doctor to avoid possible complications, such as hearing loss.

Drainage from the ear may occur if the eardrum has ruptured. If you are treating a child whose ear is draining, wash your hands so you won't spread the infection. The eardrum usually heals with proper treatment.

Otitis media is treated with antibiotics. Your doctor also may recommend nasal decongestants and nose drops. Check first with your physician before giving any medications to your child.

The chairman of the Mississippi Economic Council said the statewide business organization would oppose a third state tax increase until legislators make an effective effort to reduce state spending and improve the operating efficiency of state government.

MEC Chairman Charles Sewell, a Jackson banker, pointed out that the Council, the state's largest organization of business and professional members, supported a 1982 tax increase for education and recognized the need for a recent tax adjustment to ward off a fiscal 1984 state financial crisis.

The State Budget Commission is now projecting a need for an additional $70 million in new taxes for fiscal 1985.

"It is time that the Legislature recognizes that Mississippians are among the most heavily taxed citizens in the South, based on ability to pay," said Sewell.

"The Legislature also needs to recognize that continuing tax increases will discourage the economic development of Mississippi."

"Studies have shown," said Sewell, "that every increase in taxes adversely affects economic growth."

The MEC Chairman said the Council has just completed a study in which it identified potential non-tax revenues or savings of $106 million for the state.

"We are convinced," said Sewell, "that state spending can be reduced and that the use of state tax dollars can be improved. And, we are convinced that these reductions and improvements can be made without impairing essential state services."

The MEC chairman said statements indicating the state expenditures have been reduced in recent years are misleading.

"Information from the State Department of Audit indicates total state spending has increased by a half billion dollars over the past four years—from $2.9 billion in fiscal 1980 to more than $3.5 billion in fiscal 1983."

Copies of the MEC study identifying steps for producing additional non-tax revenues and savings of tax dollars are being made available to legislators, Sewell said.

Opinion voiced

on Coast Electric-employees suit

Dear Editor:

I have recently read several articles printed in The Sea Coast Echo concerning the law suit and firing of two Coast Electric employees.

In my opinion five auditors or any amount of auditors only balance the books. They balance the figures presented to them. The auditors will not find any mismanagement of any funds or wrong doing. I think this matter should be looked into a little more thoroughly.

This week I read that Coast Electric is refunding some $386,000 to its consumers from the period of 1956 to 1959.

This seems a little strange. There are a lot of questions concerning this that are left unanswered. Why just this period of time and why did it take so long to refund this amount of money?

I think the people of Hancock, Harrison, and Pearl River Counties who are served by Coast Electric should take notice of what is going on.

Let's face it, our light bills are not getting any cheaper. We should all start asking a few more questions concerning this matter.

To the two former employees fired by Coast Electric, stick with it. It is time that this dynasty is brought to light.

Concerned hosts can be instrumental in preventing holiday traffic tragedy

Alcohol remains a major factor in traffic fatalities and injuries, according to Nancy Long, executive director of the Mississippi Safety Council.

"The holiday season is a special time for celebrating with family and friends. At the special gatherings, alcoholic beverages are often served."

Too often the only way home is to drive. The majority of guests make it home safely, however, a small minority very often get into trouble—trouble which often results in a traffic accident or an arrest," Long warns.

"Accepting the responsibility of your guests, safety and welfare is extremely important. Remember—that one for the road can too soon become another life taken on the road," said Long.

"The greatest and most thoughtful gift that you can give a guest is a safe trip home. Don't add to the bloodshed on the highways because you were not a caring host," she added.

"If you're saying, 'I don't have to worry, I don't drink—' you worry! You could be dead wrong. During this holiday period, somewhere, sometime you will meet a drunk driver."

"Buckle your seat belt for every trip. Ask your passengers to do so too. Safety belts are the greatest protection you have against a drunk driver," Long continued.

"Unless motorists obey these laws, which were designed to protect their lives, they may very well become personally involved in a traffic tragedy," Long stated.

"Whether you're at home or on the road, we hope you'll give thought to how much safe living contributes to good living—holidays or any other day," she feels.

NEWS

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Holiday parties can be fun, but the Governor's Highway Safety Program urges Mississippians not to let death or serious injury from drunk driving be the result.

Last year, more than 350 persons lost their lives on Mississippi highways and streets because of a drunk or drugged driver, and the GHSP has offered some holiday entertaining suggestions that may help keep this yuletide season enjoyable and safe.

"Party hosts and hostesses are encouraged to have plenty of soft drinks, coffee and other non-alcoholic beverages available for guests."

"Parties need not involve a high level of drinking in order to be successful," said Ernie Albritton, alcohol countermeasures coordinator for GHSP. "People serving as party hosts have an opportunity to discourage excessive drinking by their guests."

"Don't succumb to the notion that the 'best' host and hostess are the most generous host and hostess when it comes to providing drinks. Being a good host or hostess does not mean encouraging guests to drink too much. A responsible adult who is aware of the relationship between drunk and drugged driving and fatal highway accidents would not encourage his or her guests to drink excessively."

GHSP also suggests that party givers serve food as well as drinks. Holiday parties might provide a good opportunity to serve some of those favorite holiday recipes.

"Stop serving drinks at least an hour before the party ends," Albritton suggested, "and offer guests who have had too much to drink an alternative to driving home."

Suggested alternatives, Albritton said, include offering to drive guests home or establishing car pools to ensure guests' safe arrival to and from the party. Also, hosts or hostesses can make space available in their homes for guests to spend the night.

Albritton also suggested using the designated driver concept in which one licensed driver in a group of merry-makers refrains from drinking to ensure the entire group's safe drive home.

"The best way to help prevent Mississippi's most serious problem—drunk and drugged driving—it is to make it 'none for the road' this holiday season. Don't drink and drive and don't let your friends drink and drive."

For more information on safe holiday entertaining, contact the Governor's Highway Safety Program by dialing 354-8892.

The People's Business

A MESSAGE FROM TAXPAYERS

The public attitude toward taxation is changing, and the change offers no encouragement for state and local governments.

A recent national survey reports that citizens are losing confidence in the ability of state and local governments to make effective use of tax dollars. Strangely, these same citizens are beginning to have more confidence in the use of tax dollars at the federal level.

The survey was conducted a year ago by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. Here are the significant results:

For the nation as a whole, the percentage choosing state government as providing most for the tax dollars declined from 33 to 28 percent. However, the percentage choosing the federal government rose from 30 to 35 percent.

Perhaps of more importance to Mississippi were the percentages recorded among citizens in the southern states.

In the South, the percentage of citizens choosing state government as the most effective user of tax dollars declined from 24 to 18 percent in a one-year period. Citizens choosing local government dropped from 32 to 26 percent. Meanwhile, those selecting the federal government rose from 30 to 39 percent.

There may be a message in this for members of the Mississippi Legislature, and for county and municipal officials.

S FUTURE.

Internal disagreements prove Miss. is no longer a 'closed society'

Editor's Note: The following article is the result of a program funded by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author and not those of either organization.

Learning to Disagree
About the Past
By James C. Cobb
Historian, The University of Mississippi

Twenty years ago historian James W. Silver revealed a love-hate relationship with this state in a book entitled "Mississippi: The Closed Society."

Mississippi has come a long way since then, but Mississippians are still having trouble learning to disagree, particularly where the past and its implications for the present, and future, are concerned.

Meaningful policymaking still is hampered by disturbing tendencies for Mississippians to denounce innovation and reform as the work of outside agitators or of a traitorous minority.

Hostility to externally imposed change is certainly understandable. Thirty years before the 1962 integration crisis at Ole Miss, H.L. Mencken had dubbed Mississippi "The Worst American State."

Comedian Jerry Lewis got a big laugh when he announced on The Tonight Show that when he was on an airplane, he always waited until he was over Mississippi to go to the bathroom.

Mississippians long ago got a bellyful of being reminded of their problems. Consequently, opponents of change associate the new idea with outsiders, specifically, "Yankee" outsiders.

The persistence of this attitude is ironic and tragic because Mississippi today actually faces less external pressure to change than at any time in recent memory.

In the "last decade," American society has developed empathy with the South. Racial difficulties above the Mason-Dixon line, the disillusionment of Vietnam, and Watergate made the South's historical experience seem much less "unAmerican."

The importance of Southern votes to Republican political fortunes, as well as the election of a Southern president, also gave the region more respectability.

As the northern "Frostbelt" states began to experience major economic and social problems, their representatives lost their zest for exposing the South's deficiencies and for prescribing remedies.

Finally, the Reagan administration's pruning of federal programs and responsibilities left the Southern states more in command of their own destinies.

Despite this evidence, many Mississippians continue to insist that pressures for change come either from outside sources or a tiny minority with no real loyalties to the state.

Last year, opponents of compulsory education and public kindergartens branded them examples of outside interference in Mississippi's affairs.

Even the dispute over parking in Ole Miss's grove became a battle between the oldtimers who respected "tradition" and the newcomers who did not "understand" it.

A fine example of Mississippi's "seige mentality" surfaced in the Rebel flag controversy at Ole Miss.

Devoted flag wavers lamented the "outside pressures" from the "Eastern elite," and cited the whole affair as yet another attack on a sacred Mississippi tradition.

For the most knowledgeable and interested observers, the sources of these "outside pressures" was not clear.

Despite assertions that support for the flag was the litmus test of affection for Ole Miss, the pressure to scrap it came from black and white students now at The University.

No one can deny that the moist eyes and beaming faces of black students and parents at graduation demonstrate a fierce pride in Ole Miss.

The members of the faculty Senate, many of them born in the state with years of service to The University, voted unanimously to disassociate The University from the flag.

Ultimately, many white students and alumni decided the flag was more trouble than it was worth.

If so many controversial changes have recently been initiated by Mississippians, why the insistence that the proponents of these changes are either "outsiders" or a "radical" minority, intent on destroying Mississippi's traditional values?

Several factors figure prominently in the answer.

Race is obviously one. A regrettably large number of white people still refuse to accept as fellow Mississippians the black people who make up 40 percent of the state's population.

These same white people also find it difficult to accept other white Mississippians who refuse to sanction racial insensitivity as a tradition worthy of continued support.

"Tradition," the most overworked term in Mississippi is also the most misused. Many a culture has successfully protected its tradition from significant internal opposition.

Once a society's tradition has become the focus of an ongoing internal struggle, it ceases to be a tradition. Instead, it becomes a symbol that links the present with the past: a symbol that reveals who rules, who gives, who gets.

The real issue is not tradition, but power. In this case, the power to preserve parts of Mississippi's heritage that are psychologically satisfying to some, but discouraging to others.

The assault on the status quo in Mississippi comes not from thoughtful Mississippians.

Such disagreements are not cause for alarm, but the hallmark of an enlightened society.

The conservation element does not have a monopoly on all the paranoia in Mississippi. All would-be reformers are not omniscient and virtuous.

The recent experience of the Northeast proves that not everything that passes for progress is worth the cost.

To its everlasting credit, Mississippi has not allowed its enchantment with economic growth to undermine its respect for graciousness and civility.

These traditions, as bonafide as any others, are ones that we must draw upon if we are to learn to disagree about our past.

We may differ about the meaning of our past and the obligations that it bestows upon us, but we must recognize our disagreement as valid and healthy—proof that Mississippi is no longer the "closed society" described by Professor Silver.

Zoning changes approved near Bay High School

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission gave its nod Tuesday to construction of Blue Meadow Apartments by approving zoning changes for the pertinent land.

Last week the commission postponed zoning change approval, asking for corrections to the property's legal description and for assurances that access roads would be sufficiently wide enough to meet Farmers Home Administration approval.

Prospective buyer of the property is Sam V. Morse of Pass Christian.

Jack McConahey of South Bay Builders, Inc. of Biloxi is contractor.

The $1,162,000 project, to be funded through FmHA, will include five eight-unit, two-story apartments for moderate-income housing plus a building for offices and laundry facilities.

The rezoned property, part of the Lardesse and Bouque claims, is east of Blue Meadow Road and north of US-90 near Bay St. Louis High School.

The major portion of the land to be developed is currently owned by W.E. Breland. His property was rezoned Tuesday from R-1 to R-3.

David Ratcliff's property was rezoned from R-2 to R-3. A 40-foot strip of that land will be used for access to Blue Meadow Apartments via an easement from Ratcliff.

Shirley Jones, representing herself and two sisters, told the commissioners her family owns property facing Blue Meadow Road across the road from the proposed development which they hope to divide into ten lots for a mini-subdivision when sewage lines have been installed.

"If the whole neighborhood is changing in character, it would not be feasible to build single-family homes."

"That's why we're opposing this structure across the street," she said.

The zoning changes were approved unanimously by the commissioners.

Expert offers tips to burglary victims

Being a successful crime victim may sound like a contradiction in terms.

But there are successful victims, those whose property may be stolen but who are safe from harm, according to Dr. Chester Quarles, director of law enforcement programs at the University of Mississippi.

"Many burglars will rape and murder," said Dr. Quarles.

"Even the neighborhood kid who breaks into your house would often rather kill you than be known as a burglar."

Dr. Quarles, encouraging people to be prepared for burglary and know how to escape safely, offers several tips.

If you return from a trip and realize your residence has been burglarized, he recommends staying out of the house because the burglar might still be inside.

Call the police as quickly as possible while keeping an eye on the house from a safe distance.

Not only is it safer to wait outside, he said, but when police investigate, they may be able to find fingerprints still intact.

Dr. Quarles suggests that homes have solid doors with good locks as well as dead bolt locks. Panic buttons can also be installed that immediately alert police of a break-in.

If you do surprise a burglar and he chases you, Dr. Quarles suggests getting under an automobile if possible.

"Even if he has a knife, he can't reach you, and you should be yelling for help all the while," he said.

"If he tells you to put up your hands, it's best to do so in a way that shows compliance," he advised, "since hysterical or nervous behavior increases the danger."

He said it is important not to destroy a burglar's "macho" image of himself.

"If he knows you feel disdain for him, he becomes angry and this increases the probability that he'll hurt you," said Dr. Quarles.

We will be closed Monday, Dec. 26 in observance of Christmas. HAVE A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

As far back as I can remember, the reward for us youngsters after being as pious as we possibly could during Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve was that rarest of privileges — to be permitted to stay up and "be people" along with the grownups as we shared in the feast, a glorious combination of late supper and early breakfast, on what by then was Christmas morning.

Our friends of French descent in New Orleans and in the Acadian (Cajun) countryside of South Louisiana, call this feast "Le Reveillon," the reunion, the traditional late meal which follows the religious service, "Le Massé de Minuit" — the Midnight Mass.

And, as the last strains of the music of the mass dwindle, solemnity turns to frolic, from grandpere down to the newest babe in arms.

Well, we Irish like to feast as well at Christmas; and whatever star of faith you follow on your way to heaven, I'm sure that you have your own special ways of celebration and thankfulness.

You may prefer your breakfast later on Christmas morning, or plan a very light breakfast on the run as you prepare for Christmas dinner.

Even so, you may want to serve, as so many do after the late night meal on Christmas Eve, that wonderful, midnight-dark, aromatic Cafe Brulot...black coffee laced with brandy and strips of orange peel, served at the table in a flaming finale to the feast.

Cafe Brulot is a fitting climax to either, and, if like so many families these days, you serve your Christmas dinner on Christmas Eve, you'll find Cafe Brulot a fitting ending for the buffet table on Christmas Day. So, to serve six, increasing proportions, of course, as needed, is:

CAFE BRULOT

Cut the peel of an orange and of a lemon into strips about an inch by an eighth inch. Place on a plate at table, along with three lumps of sugar, six whole cloves, and a stick of broken cinnamon.

Then light the burner under the brulot bowl or chafin dish pan, with the flame set low...or use a heavy saucepan. Drop the peel, sugar, cloves and cinnamon stick pieces into the bowl or pan, pour into enough brandy (cognac) to cover generously, and ignite...then, with the ladle, stir the flaming liquid, dipping it, up and letting it pour back into the bowl.

Meanwhile, pour in, very, very slowly, two cups of hot, strong coffee in a thin stream, stirring until the flames die down.

Then ladle into brulot cups or demi-tasse cups, and serve at once.

SUGAR BOWL WINNERS—Skipper Dennis Stieffel, left, of Bay St. Louis and Crewman Jeffrey Whitmann of Pass Christian, along with Crewman Beau LeBlanc of New Orleans topped a field of five challengers in the Soling Division of the 50th Annual Sugar Bowl Regatta on Lake Pontchartrain in New Orleans. Stieffel, Whitmann and Randy Santa Cruz of Bay St. Louis who missed the regatta due to exams in Oxford are seeking a berth in the Soling Sailing Division of the 1984 Summer

Olympic Games. Stieffel opted for the shot at the Sugar Bowl Soling title rather than defend his Race of Champions title in the regatta to further the team's chances for the Olympic slot. Also representing the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club in the Sugar Bowl were Bobby Eagan who won the Open Flying Scot Class Cup and Marc Eagan who won in the Snipe Class. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Escatawpa Wild Rivers candidate

The National Park Service is seeking public review and comment on a draft wild and scenic river study for the Escatawpa River in Alabama and Mississippi.

The study, authorized by a 1978 amendment to the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act, explores a number of options ranging from "no action" to making the Escatawpa part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

Study findings indicate that although the Escatawpa is qualified for inclusion in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, designation is not feasible at this time due to local opposition, according to the study report.

Park Service officials said they are seeking opinions from all interested citizens, organizations, landowners and elected officials before submitting the report to the President and the Congress.

Copies of the study are available for review at public libraries in Chatom and Mobile, Ala., and Pascagoula and Lucedale, Miss.

Copies of the study also are available from the National Park Service, Rivers and Trails Division, 76 Spring Street, S.W., Atlanta, Ga. 30306 (telephone 404-321-5838).

Comments should be mailed to the park Service within 45 days.

Sports Brief

DEER DIET

Although most people are afraid to eat mushrooms not found on supermarket shelves, white-tailed deer are particularly fond of wild mushrooms, according to the National Wildlife Federation. In fact, during certain times of the year, fungi make up more than 50 percent of a deer's diet in South Carolina.

RABBIT HABITS

A wild rabbit's first line of defense against a predator is to lie flat on the ground and remain absolutely still, says International Wildlife magazine. If that doesn't work, a wild rabbit can jump a distance of at least eight feet, clear obstacles five feet high, and reach speeds of more than 40 miles an hour.

USM recalls native son as head coach

University of Southern Mississippi graduate and former varsity player Hill Denson is USM's new baseball coach.

Athletic Director Roland Dale confirmed the appointment has been approved by the state college board.

The 1966 graduate, who was a dean's list student while at USM for two years after two years at Jones Junior College, will take over the baseball reins from C. J. (Pete) Taylor, who recently disclosed his retirement as baseball coach.

Taylor, who coached baseball for 20 seasons, also has served as assistant athletic director and will continue in this capacity until June 30. Denson's appointment, effective Jan. 1, is a baseball coach only.

"I am greatly pleased and excited about returning home to my state and my school and I'm looking forward to the challenge of striving to make USM competitive in the tough Metro Conference," Denson said from his home in Nashville, Tenn., where he has resided since 1982.

Dale had words of praise for both Denson and Taylor in confirming the changes, news about which had leaked out earlier in the week. "We're pleased to have coach Denson, one of coach Taylor's former pupils, join the staff, and we know he will make a strong contribution to our program," the AD said. "At the same time, we regret to see coach Taylor leave the field after his lengthy, successful and loyal tenure. We wish him the best as he continues with us here in the office."

Denson, who holds a master's degree from Mississippi College, said he will challenge his players to have a goal of "reaching at least the quarter-finals" in the Metro.

A native of Bay Springs, where he made all-conference in high school baseball and basketball, Denson enjoyed a successful career as a high school baseball coach at Jackson Callaway High School.

His teams claimed numerous titles, including one state championship and two overall Big Eight Conference titles, while compiling a record of 216 wins and 73 losses.

He was also the offensive coordinator for Callaway football teams that won the Capital Division of the Big Eight Conference six of seven years, the North Big Eight title twice, and the overall Big Eight championship once.

He was District Six baseball "coach of the year" three times, and in 1981 the Mississippi Association of Coaches and the Jackson Clarion-Ledger and Jackson Daily News chose him as the state's "baseball coach of the year."

For the past year in Nashville, he has been a teacher of mathematics and a part-time real estate agent.

From October of 1982 to September of '83, he was the advertising and promotions director for the Nashville Sounds Baseball Club, an affiliate of the New York Yankees.

Also in the fall of '82, he was a part-time assistant baseball coach at Vanderbilt University. Immediately after leaving Callaway in '81 he spent a year as a district manager for an insurance company.

The 39-year-old coach is married and the father of two daughters.

Bay-Waveland Tire edges Long Beach 2-1 in soccer

Bay-Waveland Tire bested a Long Beach team 2-1 in an exhibition soccer game Saturday with goals by Bret Lusich and John Favre.

With the number of boys showing an interest in playing soccer in the spring, another Under-14 team will be formed.

With three teams, games will be slated against Biloxi, Ocean Springs and possibly Singing River to provide a full schedule.

Occasional exhibition games will be played in Bay St. Louis with teams from Slidell and with South Mississippi teams in Gulfport.

When registration opens in January, Bay Area Youth Soccer also will attempt to register enough U-12 boys to form a new team in that division.

Diamondhead women install golf association new officers

By NAN P. EHRBRIGHT

Members of the Diamondhead Women's Golf Association met Thursday at the Country Club for their annual Christmas Scramble Tourney.

Following a locker room social hour and the tournament, the women gathered for luncheon, trophy awards and installation of officers and board members for the coming year.

Outgoing President Dusty McBee presented personal gifts to the members of her board.

Entertainment was provided by Bill Bradley, who had set up equipment on the sixth hole of the golf course to videotape the women's play.

Coaching clinic to feature secrets of success

A varied group of grid topics will be on the agenda at the annual Gulf Coast Coaching Clinic at the Bilori Hilton on Jan. 20-21.

Coach Wally English, featured speaker and head coach for the Tulane University Green Wave, will address a pair of topics: "Tulane's Passing Game" and "Philosophy of the Passing Game."

Alabama Assistant Coach Rocky Felker, one of the top Veer quarterbacks in the nation during his playing days at Mississippi State, has a couple of discussions on pertinent offensive plays.

Quarterback-Receiver Communications and Improving the Young Quarterback With Practice Drills are the responsibilities of the UA aide.

Southeastern Louisiana Defensive Coordinator Tony Misita will put his expertise to work on the topics "Simplicity in Multiple Defensive Schemes and 'Seven Musts' with the TNT" (Tackle, Nose Guard, Tackle).

Among the high school coaches on the schedule Bud O'Hara of Brookhaven High School and Charles Baglio of Independence (La.) High will share some of the secrets that helped them coach their teams to state playoff sports in '83.

Coach O'Hara will address the confab on "How to Make a Winner With an Offseason Program" and "Brookhaven High School Split Back Offense."

Coach Baglio is speaking on the subjects of "Practice Scheduling" and "Utilization of Weights Within the Season's Practice Schedule."

Special clinician Doc Rhodes of Gulfport will devote the first session to the history of the GCCC entirely to "Developing Athletes With Weights and How to Start a Working Weight Program."

"We feel this will be the most beneficial and fact-filled lineup of topics in the history of the clinic," said a staff spokesman.

It covers one of the widest ranges of football knowledge we've ever had. Reservations and applications for the Gulf Coast's largest football clinic are already being taken. Free information sheets are available from Gulf Coast Coaching Clinic, 205 Locust St., Gulfport, MS 39501.

Approximately 425 people attended last year's gathering.

PRC Lady Wildcats hold 4-6 ledger

The Pearl River College Lady Wildcats have surprised a lot of people during the first half of the '83-84 season.

But they probably have surprised themselves more than anyone.

At the Christmas break the Lady Wildcats have a 4-6 overall ledger and a sparkling 3-1 conference mark.

During the past five games, the PRC girls have won four and lost one by three points to Jones.

Of the games the She 'Cats won, all have been close, including two overtimes and one win at the buzzer.

"We are playing hard, but we have not put together a full 40 minutes," said head coach Ned Eades.

However, overall I'm really pleased with our performance.

These Lady Wildcats are scoring in double figures.

Poplarville freshman Artisa Sims is averaging 15.6 points per game. New Orleans sophomore Darlene Davis, is hitting 12.5 and West Marion freshman Debbie Marks, is chipping in an even dozen per contest.

As a team the lady Wildcats are averaging 61.4 points per game while allowing the opposition 65.1.

The Lady Wildcats will open the '84 part of the season at home against Utica on Jan. 10.

Wildcats bounce back after losing streak

The Pearl River College Wildcats, after losing five straight, have now bounced back to post a 7-8 overall ledger at the Christmas break.

During a five-game home stand the Wildcats won four and only lost to Hinds, the nation's eighth ranked team, by three points.

Two weeks ago the 'Cats knocked off Jones to end the year with a 3-1 conference mark.

"We have done really well," said Lawrence Smithmier, the 'Cats first-year head coach, who won his 200th game the third game of the season.

"We have really surprised a lot of folks."

Steve Gouner, a freshman from Gulf Breeze, Fla., is the leading scorer on the team with a 15.5 per game average.

Freshman Donald Dunston is second with a 12.1 average and sophomore Norvel Shelby of New Orleans is third at 11.9.

Overall, the Wildcats are averaging 64.5 points per game while allowing the opposition 68.3.

The team is shooting 44 percent from the floor and is making free throws at a 68 percent clip.

In January the Wildcats will open with Utica at home on the 10th and LSU-A on the 11th.

Part of a series of messages from South Central Bell.

What's going to happen to my phone service?

As of January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies will be separated from AT&T.

After divestiture, there will no longer be a Bell System as we know it today. But South Central Bell will still be your phone company. As part of a holding company called BellSouth, we'll continue to provide dependable service. For your home. And for your business.

Some things won't change.

Although there will be many changes, you'll notice very few unless you choose to change your existing home or business phone service. You'll still call on South Central Bell to order or change a phone line, to ask billing questions, to get local calling options and services and to obtain repair of phone lines. At the time of divestiture you'll still dial long distance calls the same way. And at first, you'll still get a single monthly bill.

Some things will change.

Even though you'll dial calls the same, using the South Central Bell local network, South Central Bell will actually provide only a portion of your in-state long distance service. For other in-state and out-of-state long distance calls you can choose a primary supplier of long distance service from a variety of companies.

As part of the many pricing changes brought about by competition and divestiture, local phone rates are likely to go up, and long distance rates will probably come down.

Phones you currently lease will become the property of AT&T (you'll lease from them) and they will be responsible for repair of those sets.

Responsibility for repair will be split between South Central Bell (for phone line problems) and equipment suppliers (for equipment and set problems).

There will be some changes in the way your monthly phone bill is set up.

Coping with change.

At South Central Bell we're continuing to do everything we can to make these changes as easy as possible for you. And nothing will change the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

You'll be hearing more about specific changes and what they mean to you in other ads like this -- and in your monthly phone bill insert. Meanwhile, if you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center toll free 1-800-555-5000, 10 a.m. till 11 p.m. CST Monday through Friday. We're still your phone company.

GIVE BASS A BUZZ FOR THRILLS ON TOP

One of the most exciting bass lures to fish is a buzzbait and I'll be using one along the Red Man Tournament Trail.

This is the lead-headed lure with a wire arm equipped with some sort of propeller-type blade that runs along the surface creating a disturbance with a bubbling sort of action.

The buzzbaits on the market nowadays click, knock, thrash, sound like tin cans — they do a little of everything coming across the top of the water. And what this does is excite the bass.

Bass will hit for one of two reasons — to feed on something or just to kill it. I'm not exactly sure why they hit a buzzbait, but it will draw some heartstopping strikes from an old bass. Sometimes a fish literally will blow a buzzer out of the water.

To fish this bait, cast it past an underwater stump, brush or some other submerged structure and reel it back across the cover. Generally, the best retrieve is the slowest that will allow the lure to stay on the surface. A steady, rhythmic motion is best.

I believe bass can sense the bait coming, then they see it and zero in on it.

CHIROPRACTIC SCIENCE

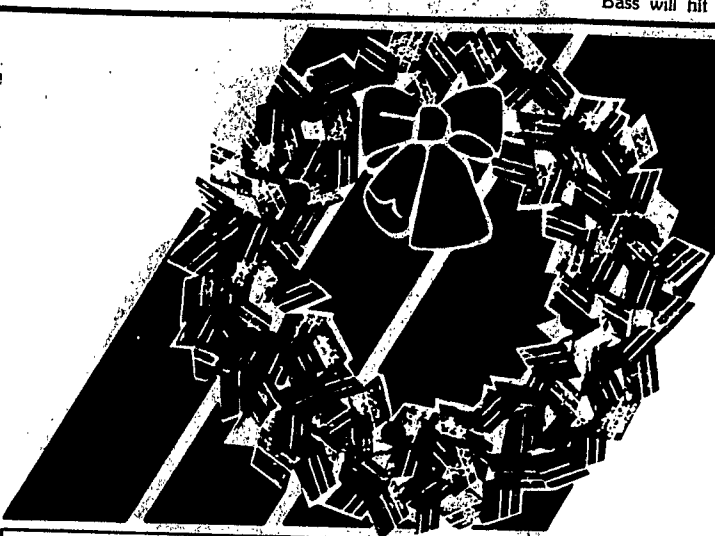

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

The nervous system originates, controls and regulates all nine primary functions of life. Moreover, it is responsible for body resistance to disease, controls recovery, health and longevity of life. If the functioning of the nervous system becomes disturbed, any number of medically diagnosed conditions can and do occur. The science of chiropractic specializes in restoring normal nerve functioning, thus helping the body in its recovery effort to return you to good health. Many authorities are now studying the science and efforts of chiropractic and are amazed at its ability to help even the serious, almost hopeless, cases get well again! Some of these health authorities are even now contributing data to the research efforts of chiropractic. If you have a health problem, it may be a sound choice to initiate chiropractic care.

FISHIN' TIPS

from Tom Mann

QUESTIONS FROM THE MAIL BAG

DEAR TOM MANN: Is there any formula you can use to tell how much a gutted bass weighed?
Floyd Jergens

HELLO FLOYD: Usually the entrails of a bass are equal to 10% of its total weight. For a female heavy with roe add another 10%.

DEAR MISTER MANN: Why does my fishing husband have to look so runchy and smell the same way?
Nause Ate

HELLO NAUSE: I don't know about your husband, ma'am, maybe he just feels more like a fisherman in his old clothes. I don't believe I'd wash them, however, they'd probably fall apart.

TOM MANN: My husband thinks you are something special and the luckiest man in the world, just going around fishing all the time. I wish you'd tell Herman there's more to it than that—Mrs. Herman HELLO HERMAN: There's more to it than that. I take time out to eat and sleep.

DEAR TOM: What is your opinion of a falling barometer?
Doc Poole

HELLO DOC: It'll probably break. But, seriously, I've been skunked on a falling barometer and I've caught a passel of fish on a falling barometer. Ditto on a rising barometer. So, I just ignore the barometer and fish when I feel like it.

MISTER MANN: My farm ponds produce some excellent fishing but, man, am I plagued with weeds! Got any help for this kind of problem?
Fishin' Farmer

HI WEEDY: Yep, I know two ways to control weeds in farm ponds. One is proper use of fertilizer or herbicides, the other is the use of the white amur carp. Consult your state fisheries biologist about both of these, he might have just the answer.

OH TOM: What are your thoughts on a 14-inch bass limit being imposed by some tournaments?
Bassin' Man

HELLO BASSIN' MAN: It can be good on one lake, bad on another. I believe in letting qualified fishery biologists in each state set a size limit based on careful study and analysis of each lake.

HELLO TOMBO: A friend told me she caught a northern pike from Georgia's Lake Seminole. I say she's fibbing. Whatchoo say, you're the expert?
Fanny Fanny

FANNY GAL: Don't judge your friend too harshly, now. She didn't catch a northern pike but she did catch a close lookalike, a big chain pickerel. There are some whoppers in Seminole, and like their cousins, the northern pike, they belong to the pike family which also includes the mighty musky.

Hancock Chamber holds annual Christmas party

CHAMBER PRESIDENT—Pat Harvill, 1984 Hancock County Chamber of Commerce president, addresses chamber members during installation and Christmas Party held last week at Diamondhead's County Club.

OUTSTANDING LAW OFFICERS—Outstanding Law Officers recognized by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce for 1983 are, from right, Sandra (Sam) Henley, Waveland investigator; David Garcia, Hancock County deputy sheriff; and Captain Robert Butler, Bay St. Louis Police department. The trio were recognized at the chamber's annual Christmas banquet.

LAW OFFICER OF YEAR—David Garcia, right, Hancock County deputy sheriff, receives a plaque for being selected as the Outstanding Law Officer of the year for Hancock County from John Mason, chamber director. The presentation was made during the chamber's annual Christmas party.

WILLIAM (BILL) IRELAND
HANCOCK COUNTY'S 1983 OUTSTANDING CITIZEN

SPECIAL AWARD—Stewart (Stu) Nelson, right, is presented a special award by Bob Hubbard, chamber director, for his efforts in the production of a slide presentation on Hancock County for the Chamber of Commerce.

YOUNG FARMER—Paul Harris, right, accepts plaque naming him as Hancock County's Young Farmer of the Year for 1983 from Bill Whitfield, chamber director.

President addresses members

The following is the text of an address delivered by Hancock County Chamber of Commerce incoming president Pat Harvill at the chamber's recent annual membership banquet at the Diamondhead Country Club.

"To begin my remarks this evening, I would like to thank each of you for the privilege you have bestowed upon me to serve as your president for 1984. It is an honor and a challenge.

"The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce strives to attract businesses that will complement our area, provide a suitable environment for expansion of businesses already here and generally improve business conditions for all.

"It is involved in providing more jobs, improving education, keeping a watchful eye on government at all levels and many other programs annually described in the program of work.

"For the coming year, we have assembled an outstanding group of committee chairpersons who will be instrumental in the creation of the program of work, and who will supervise its execution. The actual tasks we have set forth will be performed by our many committee members and by our highly professional staff.

"This will be a program of work, but it is also a program of challenge. It is a challenge to our willingness, and to our ability to make things happen. It is a challenge to each of us to take a position of community leadership.

"We must combine the business community's interests with the needs of the county as a whole.

"The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's strengths lie in the number and diversity of its membership. Both large and small businesses from virtually every profession are represented and influence the direction of the chamber's programs.

"These programs are financed by membership investments in the chamber. The members are the chamber—it belongs to you.

"The more members the chamber has the better it can represent the business community. It accomplishes collectively what no one business could do alone.

"We each have major responsibilities and great opportunities to move our county forward—to make a difference where it counts.

"We must bring to the work of the chamber the same vitality and enthusiasm we feel for our own business—and if we do, we will all move forward together!"

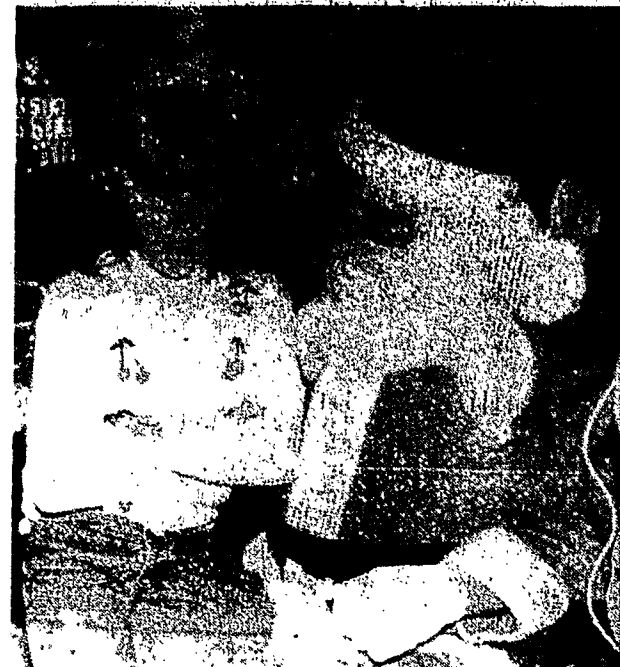

OUTSTANDING FARMER—Jerry Keith Shaw, right, is congratulated by Bill Whitfield, chamber director upon being selected as Hancock County's Farmer of the Year. Shaw is a dairy farmer.

MISS CHAMBER HONORED—Kim Ireland Strong, right, receives a certificate of appreciation for a job well done from John Scaffie, chamber director. Ireland served as Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce during 1983.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION — "Cold turkey" — abrupt withdrawal from dependency on a drug — can produce a wide variety of symptoms, depending on the drug being abused. Some of the more dramatic symptoms of "cold turkey" include tremors, panic, chills and sweating, and convulsions. Which one of these major classifications of drugs is the most dangerous to withdraw "cold turkey" from?

- a) Narcotics
- b) Depressants
- c) Stimulants
- d) Hallucinogens

ANSWER — Sudden withdrawal from depressants, especially barbiturates, is extremely dangerous. "Cold turkey" may result in death if the person is physically addicted to a depressant drug. Correct answer — b.

QUESTION — Experts believe that about half of the cocaine entering the U.S. is funneled through Miami, and that 40% comes into the country aboard private planes. Where does this illegally imported drug originate?

- a) Cuba
- b) Bolivia
- c) Peru
- d) Brazil

ANSWER — The cocaine trail to the U.S. begins 2,500 miles southwest of Florida on the eastern slopes of the Andes Mountains. The cash-crop cultivation of coca is divided primarily between Bolivia (86,000 acres) and Peru (123,000 acres). The DEA estimates that 23,000 Bolivian peasant families depend on the coca for their livelihoods, and that the crop generates nearly $1 billion a year for Peru, where the entire national budget is just over $5 billion. All but a small fraction of cocaine headed for the U.S. comes first to Columbia, generally as a gooey coca paste, for final refining into crystalline white cocaine. Correct answers — b and c.

QUESTION — The following common hallucinogenic drugs are produced in nature. Which one comes from Morning Glory seeds?

- a) THC
- b) Lysergic acid amide
- c) Mescaline
- d) Psilocybin

ANSWER — THC is the active agent in the marijuana plant. Mescaline is the "button" that grows on the Peyote cactus. Psilocybin is the hallucinogenic drug extracted from Mexican mushrooms. Lysergic acid amide, an alkaloid derivative about one-tenth as potent as LSD, is found in Morning Glory seeds. Only certain varieties, such as the "Heavenly Blue," are hallucinogenic. Correct answer — b.

QUESTION — The four main diseases caused by cigarette smoking are lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and chronic bronchitis. Which disease kills most Americans?

- a) Lung cancer
- b) Heart disease
- c) Emphysema
- d) Chronic bronchitis

ANSWER — Smoking causes 300,000 excess deaths a year: 200,000 cardiac deaths, 80,000 lung cancer deaths, and 20,000 deaths due to other causes. Correct answer — b.

The Sea Coast Echo Book Review

The first book to assess the extent of Shakespearean performances in the south from colonial times to the present, edited by Philip C. Kolin of the University of Southern Mississippi English department, has been published by the University Press of Mississippi.

"Shakespeare in the South" is a collection of 13 essays that, according to Kolin, "illuminate the continuity and richness of Shakespearean performance" in the South.

"Richard III" was the first Shakespearean performance in the south in Williamsburg in 1751. "Richard III" and two of the Bard's other bloody tragedies, "MacBeth" and "Hamlet" were the antebellum South's favorite plays.

The history of Shakespearean performances in Mississippi is the subject of one of the essays by USM professor Linwood E. Orange.

Mississippi, according to Orange, can claim several firsts including the 1814 Natchez performance of "Othello," which is thought to be the first Shakespearean performance in English west of the Alleghenies.

"There is evidence that the first performance to take place on a showboat occurred in Mississippi on the evening of Dec. 10, 1817 (the date of Mississippi's admission to the Union)...on a keel boat christened Noah's Ark," said Orange. This also took place in Natchez.

Later Vicksburg and then Jackson joined Natchez as theatre centers in the state with the greatest number of productions staged between 1836-39. After the Civil War Shakespeare was neglected until his revival in the 20th century by the state's colleges and universities.

Other centers of Shakespearean activity in the South include Richmond, Charleston, New Orleans, Mobile, Baltimore and Houston. Shakespeare festivals are now held in North Carolina, Alabama, Florida, and Texas.

The first presentation of "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "Anthony and Cleopatra" in the United States was in New Orleans. Mobile was the site of the debut in 1867 of Edwin Booth, brother of John Wilkes, and one of the greatest actors of his day.

The tastes of the audiences have changed with time, said Kolin. "During the nineteenth century tragedy was king...modern audiences prefer the comedies."

Prior to the Civil War Shakespearean productions shared the program with ventriloquists, dancers, equestrian acts and other forms of entertainment.

Comparing Elizabethan England and the antebellum South, Kolin found much in common: both societies were moving toward civil war and in the process saw an erosion of chivalry and idealism; both also possessed a great love of theatre and a fondness for actors.

CANCER Answer line

QUESTION: Is testicular cancer a rare form of cancer?

ANSWERline: No. Cancer of the testes, the male reproductive glands, is the most common cancer in men 15 to 34 years of age. It accounts for 12 percent of all cancer deaths in this group. When detected and treated early, testicular cancer has a 50-year survival rate of about 70 percent.

Men who have an undescended or partially descended testicle are at a much higher risk for the disease. All men, though, should practice a monthly self-examination in which they check for hard lumps or nodules. If any are found, a doctor should be notified immediately. Other symptoms of testicular cancer include a dull ache in the abdomen and groin, and a sensation of heaviness.

A regular feature prepared by the American Cancer Society to help save your life from cancer.

The Gulf Park campus of the University of Southern Mississippi will host a major conference for the Continuing Education Program of the School of Nursing titled "Surviving DRG's, RIM's, Costing Out Nursing" Jan. 26-27.

The keynote speaker will be Regina McPhillips, PhD, RN, director, Bureau of Data Management and Strategy, Health Care Financing Administration, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The RIM's methodology is to be incorporated into the current DRG payment mechanism.

These concerns and more will be addressed in this two-day conference that will bring together national experts and regional managers who are developing methodologies for dealing with these concerns, to share their knowledge and experiences.

For further information, contact Virginia B. Newbern, Continuing Education Program, Southern Station Box 5104, Hattiesburg, Ms 39406-5104 or call 266-5509.

Pass Christian School System students register impressive test scores

Standardized test scores continue to rise throughout the Pass Christian School District.

According to reports received by the school board from the school principals, the scores received as a result of spring testing indicate that overall student achievement continues to be favorable.

California Achievement (C.A.T.) test composite grade scores indicate that all grades in the Delisle Elementary School are performing above grade levels. The first grade scored at 1.8 grade level or .1 above grade level; the second grade scored at 3.7 grade level or 1.0 above; third grade scored 4.6 grade level, or .9 above; and, the fourth grade scored at 5.5 or .8 above grade level.

In the Pass Christian Elementary School, grades 1-4, the results were equally as impressive. The first grade scored at 2.2 grade level or .5

above grade; the second grade scored at 3.2 grade level or .5 above grade; the third grade scored at 4.6 grade level or .9 above grade; and the fourth grade scored at 5.0 grade level or .3 above grade.

According to the principals, Patricia Zatarain, Delisle Elementary and Sharon Lembright, Pass Elementary School, with minor exceptions, these are the best scores attained by the students in the Pass Christian elementary schools during the last five years and indicates that overall students are achieving at a higher rate than in the past.

Principal Michael Bonney reported that the test results from the Pass Christian Middle School grades 5-8 were equally as impressive.

The results of the 1982-83 California Achievement tests at the Pass Middle School show mean (average) achievement to be above an-anticipated levels in all subject areas at all four grade levels. The greatest improvement was made on the eighth grade tests where mean scores improved in all areas tested.

Mean scores increased by a minimum of ten percentile points with a seventeen percentile point increase in the total battery score.

The scores were as follows: fifth grade - achieved grade equivalent score 6.1, anticipated score 5.2, mean national percentile 57%; sixth grade - achieved anticipated scale score 500, mean achieved score 485, mean national percentile 55%; seventh grade - achieved grade equivalent score 8.0, anticipated score 7.5, mean national percentile 57%; eighth grade - mean anticipated scale score 576, mean achieved score 545, mean national percentile 60%.

Reports from the Pass Christian High School indicate that the mean (average) A.C.T. score has risen one point, from 15 to 16, since 1978. The statewide average is 16.2 for men and 14.5 for women.

The California Achievement Test is administered to the tenth and twelfth grades. The students' scores exceeded anticipated scores in all areas in both grades tested.

Superintendent Lizana reports that scores on two standardized tests given in grades four, six, and eight of the elementary schools of the district last April are better than the previous year's scores according to the results of the Statewide Testing Program.

The State of Mississippi, as a part of the statewide accountability program, administers two tests each year to all students in grades four, six, and eight.

One test is the Short Form Test of Academic Aptitude, which measures students' abilities.

The other is the California Achievement Test, which is a measure of what students have learned.

The test results show whether students scored beyond or below the standard.

The fourth grade achieved as expected in total reading but, above expectations in all other areas - spelling, language, math and reference skills.

Sixth grade students scored above anticipated levels in all areas tested.

Likewise, eighth grade students scored above expectations in all areas.

Lizana stated that the kindergarten results were positive. The Metropolitan Readiness Test is administered to all incoming kindergarten students in September of the school year and is again administered to the kindergarten students in April of the school year.

The test is designed to measure the students' readiness for school experiences.

The test administered to the 74 kindergarten students in the Pass Christian schools indicated that 69 students scored below the fiftieth percentile and only five students scored above the fiftieth percentile.

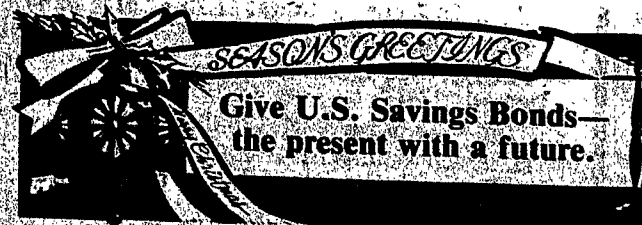

The results of the Metropolitan administered in April to 72 of the same students indicated that 62 were above the fifteenth percentile while only ten students were below the fifteenth percentile. These are national percentile scores.

Lizana expressed pleasure with the gains exemplified by the test results.

He indicated that the district will continue to concentrate on improving instruction. Teaching will be directed toward correcting weaknesses identified through the testing program.

All schools are placing more emphasis on vocabulary, building and oral and written expressions.

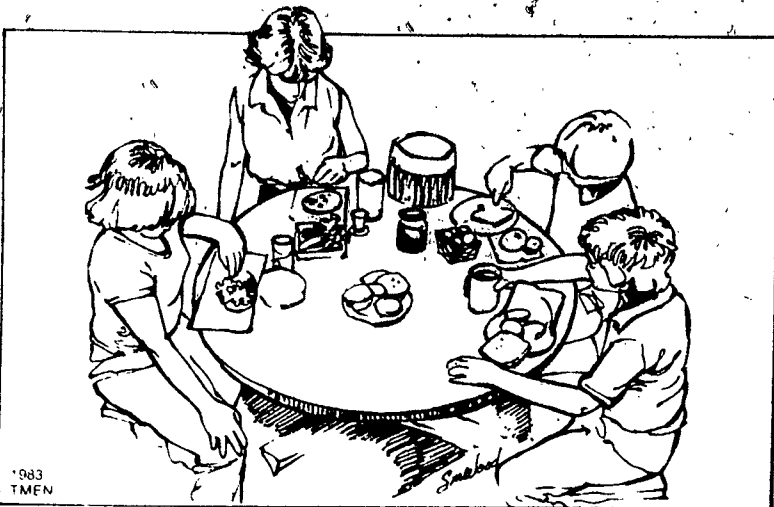

Lizana stated that parents are asked to contact their children's teachers, counselors, or principals for further information about the tests and individual test scores.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

PACK A HEALTHFUL BOX LUNCH FOR SCHOOL!

Though lots of parents take great pains to provide their children with nourishing meals at home, they don't always give as much thought to what the youngsters eat when away from home. And unfortunately, the lunches that are dished up in public school cafeterias are quite often full of such "demons" as white flour, sugar, and other highly processed foods.

Here, then, are a few recipes for nutritious carry-along edibles that were developed by our favorite health food chef, Deborah Dunn. The meals here are all easy and fun to put together, which means that youngsters may even enjoy helping with the preparations!

Probably the single most popular lunch box filler is the sandwich... and this simple no-nonsense treat can be made far more appetizing and nutritious than the plain old white-bread-and-bologna standard. To prepare a slightly sweet and energy-boosting sandwich, spread peanut butter on whole wheat bread and top it with banana slices, sunflower seeds, and raisins. Or, as a variation, cover the protein-packed filling with grapefruit or cucumber slices, and then add alfalfa sprouts.

SPROUTS can also make a delicious and crunchy addition to sandwiches: Just spread the bread with mayonnaise... add thinly sliced cheddar, Swiss, or Monterey Jack cheese... and then pile on a thick layer of sprouts.

Cheese sandwiches can benefit from the addition of raw vegetables, too. Butter your slices of bread for use mayonnaise, and add the cheese, either sliced or grated, plus any one or all of the following vegetables: sliced cucumber, avocado, tomato, grated carrot, and diced onion.

These sandwiches don't have to be the only main courses your children eat. To prepare a piece of cold quiche travels well, as do macaroni-and-cheese wedges.

For a quick, easy, and healthy snack, cut up carrots, celery, and green pepper rings along with a yogurt or sour cream dip. Fresh fruit makes a delicious dessert, too, and it just may be sweet enough to keep your child from the urge to visit the candy machine! Toss together a bowl of strawberries, blueberries, banana sections, melon cubes, and pineapple chunks.

For drinks, you can fill your child's thermos with hot, hearty soup or bouillon... or try a thick and tasty peanut butter shake that will provide enough protein to keep your youngster going all day! To make it, blend 1/2 cup each of milk and plain yogurt with 1 tablespoon of peanut butter and 1 teaspoon of honey. Finally, you can include a nice surprise in your child's lunch box by making spiced apple juice. Soak a cinnamon stick in one cup of apple juice overnight, then remove the spicy stick before pouring the beverage into the thermos. (It's even better warm!)

If you want to be certain your children are eating as well at school as they are at home, send the young scholars off each day with a lunch box full of homemade foods that will keep them happy and healthy!

The Fourteenth Annual Choral Conductors Conference has been scheduled for Feb. 2-4 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Dr. Hugh Sanders and Eva Mae Struckmeyer Youngberg of Oakland, Calif., will be guest clinicians for the festival.

Sanders, president-elect of the American Choral Directors Association, is Dean of Fine Arts at West Texas State University.

Youngberg is a nationally recognized junior high choral specialist.

Sanders has established a reputation as one who works especially well with high school and college students, according to Dr. Rolland Shaw, director of choral activities at USM.

Approximately 1,000 choral directors and choir members from throughout the South attend the conference each year.

The conference features concerts by guest choirs from elementary, junior high and high schools, junior colleges, universities and community groups.

Workshops, lectures, reading sessions and performances by USM groups are scheduled. A special feature will be an opening night performance of Faure's "Requiem" by selected junior college choirs with the USM Symphony Orchestra at 8 p.m. Feb. 2.

The conference is supported jointly by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

For additional information contact Rolland Shaw,

Southern Station Box 8254, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401 or call (601) 286-5545.
